

In Memoriam

Victor Eisner Jr., M.D., M.P.H. '63 died July 10, 2002, at Marin General Hospital in Greenbrae, California. A World War II veteran who earned a Purple Heart and four Bronze Stars, Eisner received his bachelor's degree from Stanford University and his medical degree from Harvard University. After earning his M.P.H. at Berkeley in 1963, he served on the school's faculty until 1980. He was predeceased by his wife, Rosemarie, and is survived by his daughter Julie, son Lorenz, son-in-law Chris, three grandchildren, brother Sigmund, sister-in-law Nancy, and numerous nephews, nieces, grand-nephews, and grandnieces.

June (McCartin) Foote, B.S. '39 (Nursing), Cred. '42 (Public Health) died June 26, 2002, in Medford, Oregon. Foote was a public health nurse until her retirement. A dedicated protector of nature, she was a founding board member of The Land Trust of Napa County and the Natural Science Docents. She is survived by her husband of 61 years, Si; two children, Nancy and Curt; and a grandchild.

Eli Glogow, Dr. P.H., M.P.H. '51 died September 12, 2002, at his home in Culver City, California. Glogow was an emeritus professor of public administration and a long-time administrator at the University of Southern California. He received numerous awards for teaching excellence and outstanding service and was published in more than 25 professional and academic publications. Glogow is survived by his wife of 24 years, Christine, as well as a son and a daughter, a sister, and grandchildren, nieces, and nephews.

Walter H. Graze, M.P.H. '85 died March 2, 2003. Graze was a senior industrial hygienist and manager of the Asbestos Contractors Registration Unit for the California Occupational Safety and Health Program in the California Department of Industrial Relations. Before that, Graze worked for the San Francisco Public Utility Commission, where he had health and safety management responsibility for the city's Municipal Railroad and Hetch Hetchy Water System employees. He also worked with WORKSAFE and the Labor Occupational Health Program at UC Berkeley on a variety of projects. He is survived by his wife, Margene, daughters Maxine and Rita, and sister Natalie.

Nell Hollinger, Ph.D. died April 23, 2002, at Carson-Tahoe Hospital in Carson City, Nevada. Hollinger, a professor emerita of public health, was on the

Alumni Notes continued from page 27

She has developed an occupational pesticide illness and injury surveillance program for the state to track occupational pesticide exposure. She is renovating a 120-year-old farmhouse with her husband Larry and their daughter Isabelle, who is five years old.

Judith Feinson, M.C.P., M.P.H. '94 is a program evaluator for the State of Delaware's Department of Health and Social Services. She also conducts research on tobacco prevention and children for a pediatric pulmonologist.

Audrey O. T. Lau, M.D., M.P.H. '94 "I gave birth to my first child on April 14, 2002. His name is Buel Frederick Yat-Hay Rodgers or 'Freddie' for short."

David Zalk, M.P.H. '94 has become president of the International Occupational Hygiene Association. The association includes 25 member organizations in 23 countries.

Kay Wallis, M.P.H. '96 is special projects manager in the Department of Medicine at UCSF and lives in Richmond, California. She writes, "I am active in local organizing to fight corporate polluters and support homeless rights. I have successfully utilized 'media advocacy' skills learned at SPH in several local campaigns."

Steffi Becht Kellam, M.P.H. '98 "After living in Argentina for a year, we've moved back to Texas and now have a beautiful baby girl, Katherine Ann (Katie)."

Michael P. Wilson, M.P.H. '98 won a Switzer Environmental Fellowship, awarded by the Robert & Patricia Switzer Foundation to outstanding early-career environmental leaders. Wilson is at Berkeley working on his Ph.D. in environmental health sciences.

Anna C. Ziedins, M.P.H. '98 received her D.V.M. from UC Davis in June 2002. She has begun an internship at the Loomis Basin Veterinary Clinic. Anna is the daughter of Inta Ziedins, B.S. '58.

Kamyar Kalantar-Zadeh, M.D., M.P.H. '99 has been promoted to step III assistant clinical professor of medicine and pediatrics at the UCLA School of Medicine and Harbor-UCLA Medical Center. He received a career award from the NIH to conduct a cohort study concerning nutrition and outcome in dialysis patients.

Danielle A. Lloyd, M.P.H. '99 married Stuart Evans on July 7, 2002, in Washington, D.C. Alaine Perry, M.P.H. '99, was in attendance. After completing the presidential management internship program at the Health Care Financing Administration and the House of Representatives Ways and Means Subcommittee on Health, Lloyd became vice president for federal reimbursement programs for the California Healthcare Association.

2000s

Nilda Chong, M.D., Dr.P.H. '00 is the author of The Latino Patient: A Cultural Guide for Health Care Providers, released last year by the Intercultural Press. The book provides an in-depth exploration of Latino diversity, health status, relevant cultural values, health beliefs, and effective communication strategies. Chong is director of Kaiser Permanente's Institute for Culturally Competent Care.

Eric J. Chow, M.P.H. '00 is in the midst of his pediatric residency at the University of Washington.

Sara McMenam, Ph.D. '02, M.P.H. '98 received her Ph.D. in health services and policy analysis in May 2002. On February 14, 2002, she gave birth to a son. 🍀 school's faculty from 1944 to 1970. Born April 18, 1905, in Lordsburg, New Mexico Territory, she received her bachelor's degree from Berkeley and her doctorate from Stanford University. She was a key member of the team that developed and produced the first beta-hemolytic streptolysin, the first successful attempt at a nationally available test for rheumatic fever. Hollinger was active in the American Society of Microbiology, the American Association of Clinical Chemists, and the American Association of University Women.

Dorothy Rea MacGregor, B.A. '43 (Public Health) died June 10, 2002, at her home in Victoria, British Columbia. MacGregor worked as a lab technician before retiring to raise her family. She is survived by her husband, Wallace MacGregor; her three children, Malcolm MacGregor, Janet MacGregor-Williams, and Kenneth MacGregor; and four grandchildren.

Stewart Harvey Madin, D.V.M., Ph.D., B.A.'40 (Public Health) died September 18, 2002, in his Orinda, California home at the age of 84. Born in England, he received both his B.A. and Ph.D. from Berkeley and his D.V.M. from Texas A&M University. Madin joined the faculty of the School of Public Health in 1961, transferring from the Department of Bacteriology, where he had held an appointment since 1950. His specialty area was animal viruses. Madin was known for his expertise in foot-and-mouth disease and contributed to early work on defenses against biological warfare. He served as an emeritus professor from 1986 until the time of his death and was an active mentor for students at the School of Public Health. Madin's wife, Katherine, predeceased him by two months. He is survived by three sons.

David Nishimura, M.P.H. '84 died August 20, 2002, in Sacramento, California. Nishimura worked for the California State Department of Mental Health, and before that, the State Department of Corrections. Nishimura was an organizer and supporter of many charities including the March of Dimes. He is survived by his parents, Stan and Elaine Nishimura; sister Susan Carnes, brother Jim Nishimura, two nieces, and a nephew.

Dianna Thomsen, J.D., M.P.H. '86 died August 22, 2002, of a rare brain cancer at age 38. She was raised in Albany, California, and received her bachelor's degree in biology cum laude in 1985 from Vassar College. She earned a law degree from Santa Clara University in 1987. In 1997 she joined the Washington, D.C., law firm of King & Spalding, where she specialized in representing companies before the Food and Drug Administration. 🍷

SUPPORT THE SCHOOL WITH A GIFT THAT GIVES BACK

Are you interested in finding an investment that will give you a fixed and healthy return? Charitable gift annuities do just that. In exchange for a gift of cash or other property to the School of Public Health, you or the person of your choice will receive an annuity that pays a fixed amount of money for life.

A gift annuity offers the following benefits:

- A current income tax deduction;
- Avoidance of capital gains tax for gifts of appreciated property;
- A fixed income for life; and
- The knowledge that your gift ultimately will support the School of Public Health.

For more information, contact Rachel Crawford in the Office of Planned Giving at (800) 200-0570 or (510) 642-6300.

- Find classmates.
- Network with fellow public health professionals.
- Mentor recent graduates.
- Join topical discussions.
- Keep tabs on faculty and alumni in the news.
- Establish a berkeley.edu email forwarding address.

A Web-based community for UC Berkeley School of Public Health alumni.

<https://spalum.berkeley.edu>

@eal