

Faculty Interests

Christopher Ansell, Professor. Political science, social movements, political sociology, network analysis, organization theory, public administration, political parties, Western Europe.

Joan Bloom, Professor. Health policy and management, cancer prevention, early detection and long term survival, reducing disparities in access to health care.

Timothy Brown, Associate Adjunct Professor. Health insurance benefit design, public health services and systems, mental health economics, dental economics, social capital, econometrics.

Ralph Catalano, Professor. Mental health services, economic antecedents, stress related illness.

Julianna Deardorff, Associate Professor. Adolescent health, puberty, sexual development, cultural factors, contextual factors.

William H. Dow, Professor. Health economics, international health, economic demography.

Lia C. Fernald, Associate Professor. Poverty, obesity, child development, public health nutrition, global health, psychosocial and biological determinants of health, overweight, nutritional and epidemiologic transition, chronic disease, malnutrition, child health and development, early experience, inequality and health disparities, Latino health, Mexican-Americans and other immigrant groups, stress hormones, salivary cortisol.

Paul J. Gertler, Professor. Health economics, health care financing, economic development, industrial organization.

Sylvia Guendelman, Professor. Maternal & child health, health and social behavior, health policy and management, specialty area in multicultural health.

Benjamin Handel, Assistant Professor. Health economics, industrial organization.

Rucker Charles Johnson, Associate Professor. Determinants of intergenerational mobility, societal consequences of incarceration, effects of maternal employment patterns on child well-being, socioeconomic determinants of health disparities over the life course

Ann C. Keller, Associate Professor. Managing expertise and knowledge validation in public health organizations, scientists' role in environmental policy, patient interest group advocacy, organization and expertise in pandemic response.

Jonathan Kolstad, Assistant Professor. Health economics, industrial organization, public economics, applied microeconomics.

David Levine, Professor. Economic development, labor and organizational economics.

Jonah Levy, Professor. Political science, social policy, comparative political economy, West European politics, relationship between partisanship and welfare reform in contemporary Western Europe.

Edward Andrew Miguel, Professor. Africa, education, development economics, human capital, health, ethnic divisions, social capital, civil conflict, war, pre-analysis plans, water.

Emily Ozer, Professor. Mental health, health and social behavior, clinical and community psychology, adolescent development, school-based health promotion.

Steven Raphael, Professor. Crime, public policy, employment discrimination, labor economics, racial inequality, urban economics, criminal justice policy.

James Robinson, Professor. Health policy and management, environmental health sciences, health services and policy analysis.

Hector P. Rodriguez, Associate Professor. Organizational influences on the quality of ambulatory care, interprofessional primary care team approaches and continuity of care, ambulatory care performance measurement and improvement, local public health system effectiveness.

Richard M. Scheffler, Professor. Health and social behavior, health policy and management, health services & policy analysis, global health, health economics, health workforce, human resources for health, health market analysis.

Stephen Shortell, Professor. Health care systems, strategy change and adaptation, organizational performance, organizational and managerial correlates of continuous quality improvement, health care outcomes, empirical analysis of physician-organizational relationship.

Laura Stoker, Associate Professor. American politics, political behavior, political psychology, public opinion, voting and elections, political socialization, research design and empirical methods.