

Name: Ralph Catalano	Position Title(s): Professor of Public Health
--------------------------------	---------------------------------------------------------

EDUCATION/TRAINING

Institution & Location	Degree	Year	Field of Study
Boston College	BA	1968	Political Science
Syracuse University	MRP	1970	Regional Planning
Syracuse University	PhD	1972	Social Science

Positions

1989-present - UC, Berkeley School of Public Health (Professor of Public Health)

2004-present - UC Berkeley Robert Wood Johnson Health & Society Scholars Program (Director)

2013-2014 - UC Berkeley, School of Public Health (Executive Associate Dean)

Current Professional Memberships & Affiliations

2006 – 2010 - Editorial Board, Journal of Health and Social Behavior

2006 – 2008 - National Institutes of Health - Mental Health Services Research Grant Review Committee

Service

2002- 2008 - Board of Regents, Samuel Merritt College

Recent Publications

- Catalano, R., Currier, R., & Steinsaltz, D. (2015). Hormonal evidence of selection in utero revisited. American Journal of Human Biology. 27:426-421.
- Margerison-Zilko, C., Goodman, J., Anderson, E., Gemmill, A., & Catalano, R. (2015). Post-term birth as a response to environmental stress: the case of September 11, 2001. Evolution, Medicine, and Public Health. 1:13-20.
- Karasek, D., Goodman, J., Gemmill, A., Falconi, A., Hartig, T., Magganas, A., & Catalano, R. (2015). Twins less frequent than expected among male births in risk averse populations. Twin Research and Human Genetics. 18:314-320.
- Catalano, R., Goodman, J., Margerison-Zilko, C., Falconi, A., Gemmill, A., Karasek, D. & Anderson, E. (2015). Timing of birth: Parsimony favors strategic over dysregulated parturition. American Journal of Human Biology. doi:10.1002/ajhb.22737.
- Gemmill, A., Falconi, A., Karasek, D., Hartig, T., Andersen, B., & Catalano, R. (2015). Do macroeconomic contractions induce or 'harvest' suicides? A test of competing hypotheses. Journal of Epidemiology & Community Health. doi:10.1136/jech-2015-205489.
- Falconi, A., Gemmil, A., Karasek, D., Goodman, J., Anderson, B., Lee, M., Bellows, B., & Catalano, R. (2016). Stroke attributable death among older persons during the Great Recession. Economics and Human Biology. 21:56-63.
- Bruckner, T., Catalano, R., & Mortensen, L. (in press). Spontaneous pregnancy loss in Denmark following economic downturns. American Journal of Epidemiology.
- Catalano, R., Bruckner, T., Karasek, D., Adler, N., & Mortensen, L. (in press). Risk aversion in spontaneous and induced abortion. Human Reproduction.